Bridges to Success will establish a system of care for adolescents with SED, ages 16-21, and their families in Greenwood, SC. Multiple service systems will be engaged: community mental health centers (including adolescent-adult bridging programs), juvenile justice, child welfare, vocational rehabilitation, business, housing, school systems, public health, the Medicaid agency, substance abuse agency, and both the SC Family Support Network and SC Share (a consumer group). The program focuses on education, training, and employment leading to self-sufficiency in adulthood for these adolescents.

Employment Intervention for People with SMI

SM51823

FY 99 Funding: $544,303

Project Period: 6/15/95 - 5/31/00

This project examines alternative approaches to providing supported employment services within a rural, southern Community Mental Health Center with a large African-American population. Two approaches (the Program of Assertive Community Treatment-Integrated Vocational Rehabilitation and the Individual Placement and Support) integrate employment services with mental health and other community support services in an assertive community treatment model but differ with respect to how services are integrated. The third approach is the standard community support program that includes non-integrated supported employment services. Persons with severe mental illness have been randomly assigned to the three treatment conditions. Outcome assessments will look at competitive employment, ratio of earnings to mental health/employment service costs, community tenure, satisfaction with services, family relations and symptom stability.

State Performance Indicator Pilot

SM52541

Congressional District: SC-01

FY 99 Funding: $99,104

Project Period: 9/30/98 - 8/31/01

The three goals of the South Carolina Department of Mental Health (DMH) are to develop indicators not already collected in the State that reflect the required Five State Feasibility Study indicators. The second goal of the Department will be to include input from consumers, family members, and other advocates. A third goal will be to give clinicians and consumers information on best practices for mental health services. South Carolina is currently able to compile 15 of the 28 indicators required. In this project, resources will also be used to refine the 15 established indicators to ensure that systems are in place to collect consistently defined and accurate data. The ultimate goal is to develop a refined performance indicator system which will be implemented on a State-wide basis by the end of the three year period.

SC SHARE is South Carolina's only mental health consumer-run, not-for-profit organization. SC SHARE's mission is to empower people with mental illness by building and maintaining a network of self-help groups guided by the principles of respect, acceptance and love. SC SHARE works with the mental health systems to educate consumers and professionals, teach consumer leadership and promote public awareness. This State networking grant will allow SC SHARE to empower consumers by teaching leadership and business skills, offer opportunities to collaborate with sister advocacy agencies through resource development training initiatives and by building a stronger voice for consumers in mental health systems. SC SHARE will track the number and type of technical assistance identified by participants during training institutes.

The target population for this study are persons with complex co-occurring health and social problems associated with primary, severe alcohol and other drug use disorders, but who "fall between the gaps" in the substance abuse, mental health, public/community health, and social service systems. The Assertive Community treatment (ACT) is an innovative service model for serving such persons that have not been empirically tested for its impact on primary, severe substance abuse problems.

The project is proposing safe housing following the completion of residential treatment or a safe place to live while in intensive outpatient treatment. This project will serve women and their children. The expansion will include a customized job training program for women. The case management component will ensure that linkages for service and support are coordinated. The project will continue to support women after they have returned to their communities. The children will receive a full range of assessment and developmental services.
